HUSTING SEEKING TO REVIVE CASE

QUESTION OF ELECTION OF SENATOR STEPHENSON NOT YET DECIDED.

DECIDED EARLY IN WEEK

Bank Guaranty Bill Continues To Bother Committee Owing To Strong Opposition.

Madison, Wis., March 2.—No attempt will be made to revive the resolution aimed at the seat of United States Senator James Stephenson until early next week, when Senator Paul Hustling will cause the measure to be reported out of the upper house judiciary committee. Reports that it is intended to let the matter "slide" in view of the vote on Senator Lorimer in the national senate yesterday, were denied by Senator Hustling.

The latter has the assurance of the judiciary committee that the resolution will be brought into the senate whenever Hustling is ready to begin his attack upon the aged Marquette statesman.

The vote on Lorimer will not have any effect upon the attitude of the legislature toward the anti-Stephenson resolution, as the majority in each house undoubtedly will desire to vote to ensure Stephenson's re-election to the United States senate, and to certify the investigators whether or not there is prospect of his being impeached.

There is no lack in the opposition of certain bankers to the bill for guaranty of bank deposits. At the hearing on the two Owen bills before the senate committee on corporations, several bankers and manufacturers appeared before the committee, the latter especially opposing the reorganization of commercial deposits and time certificates.

The result of the hearings on the income tax proposition will be that an entirely new bill probably will be drawn within the next month by the joint committee on taxation. The opposition to the pending measure has been particularly bitter, as the large manufacturers would be hard hit by the provision for a 6 per cent tax on incomes over $12,000 a year.

Realizing the necessity for more care in the drafting of a bill, the committee has secured the services of D. O. Kinsman of the Milwaukee normal school, who has been given leave of absence for a month. Mr. Kinsman is said to be one of the best authorities on the subject in the country. The committee also will have the assistance of Prof. T. S. Adams, recently appointed to the tax commission, and Tax Commissioner N. P. Haugen.

The state attorneys continue of the senate today recommended for passage Senator Sanborn's bill for an appropriation of $1,000 for the traveling expenses of the adjutant general in the inspection of the naval militia at Ashland. The committee laid over for a day the bill providing for $5,000 annually for another fish hatchery, to be built somewhere on the shores of Lake Michigan.

Attorney General Bancroft has received word of the appointment of the Minnesota legislative committee which wishes to meet a similar committee of the Wisconsin legislature, in an effort to adjust the Lake Pepin and St. Louis river boundary disputes.

PROMINENT ILLINOIS PIONEER DIES IN PEORIA TODAY

Peoria, Ill., March 2.—Col. John D. McClure, aged 75, a pioneer resident of Illinois, is dead. In the civil war he served in the Forty-Seventh Illinois Volunteers and was also on the staff of Gen. Sherman.

VETO BILL CAUSES CRUSH IN COMMONS

Discussion of This Measure Brings Out Large Number of Spectators.

London, March 2.—The House of Commons was crowded today on the occasion of the conclusion of the second reading stage of the veto bill. Balfour bitterly attacked the proposition and premier Asquith spoke warmly in its defense.

BILL IS AIMED AT BANCROFT TO CUT OFF HIS POWERS

Administration Would Clip His Wings As Much As Possible For Political Reasons.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Madison, Wis., March 2.—Coincident with the announcement today that the attorney general's office has secured a settlement with two large Kenosha estates by which the state will secure a total of $137,000 in inheritance taxes, minus the county's share of 7 1/2 per cent, it was learned that two bills will be presented in a day or two which are designed to take away from the attorney general the power to effect such settlements.

One by senator Blaine which will prohibit a compromise without a regular court action for the collection of the entire amount required by law, and also will take away from counties the percentage now given them of all taxes collected and substitute only the more court costs.

The other assemblyman Mahon, will provide that the power of employing special counsel in inheritance cases be vested in the governor alone. Both bills are aimed in a way at the attorney general, H. H. Bancroft, and politically it being argued that his duties should not include such matters.

It is the evident intention of the administration to take from that office all duties that can be so carried out as to "adversely" him in a political way.

Of the $137,000 secured from Kenosha $55,000 was from the Jeffery estate and $12,000 from the Simon estate.

RIGHT OF WOMEN: TOPIC DISCUSSED

Address At Opening of Royal Neighbors Giving This Fact

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

La Crosse, Wis., March 2.—The rights of women must be recognized and women be fully recognized a greater factor in American political and business life, declared H. E. Keeler, state deputy of the Modern Woodmen of America, in his address to the Royal Neighbors of America and at the opening of their second state biennial convention which opened here Wednesday morning.

LEGISLATURE HEARD SOCIALISTIC TALK

Victor Berger and Mayor Seidel of Milwaukee Give Addresses To Legislature This Morning.

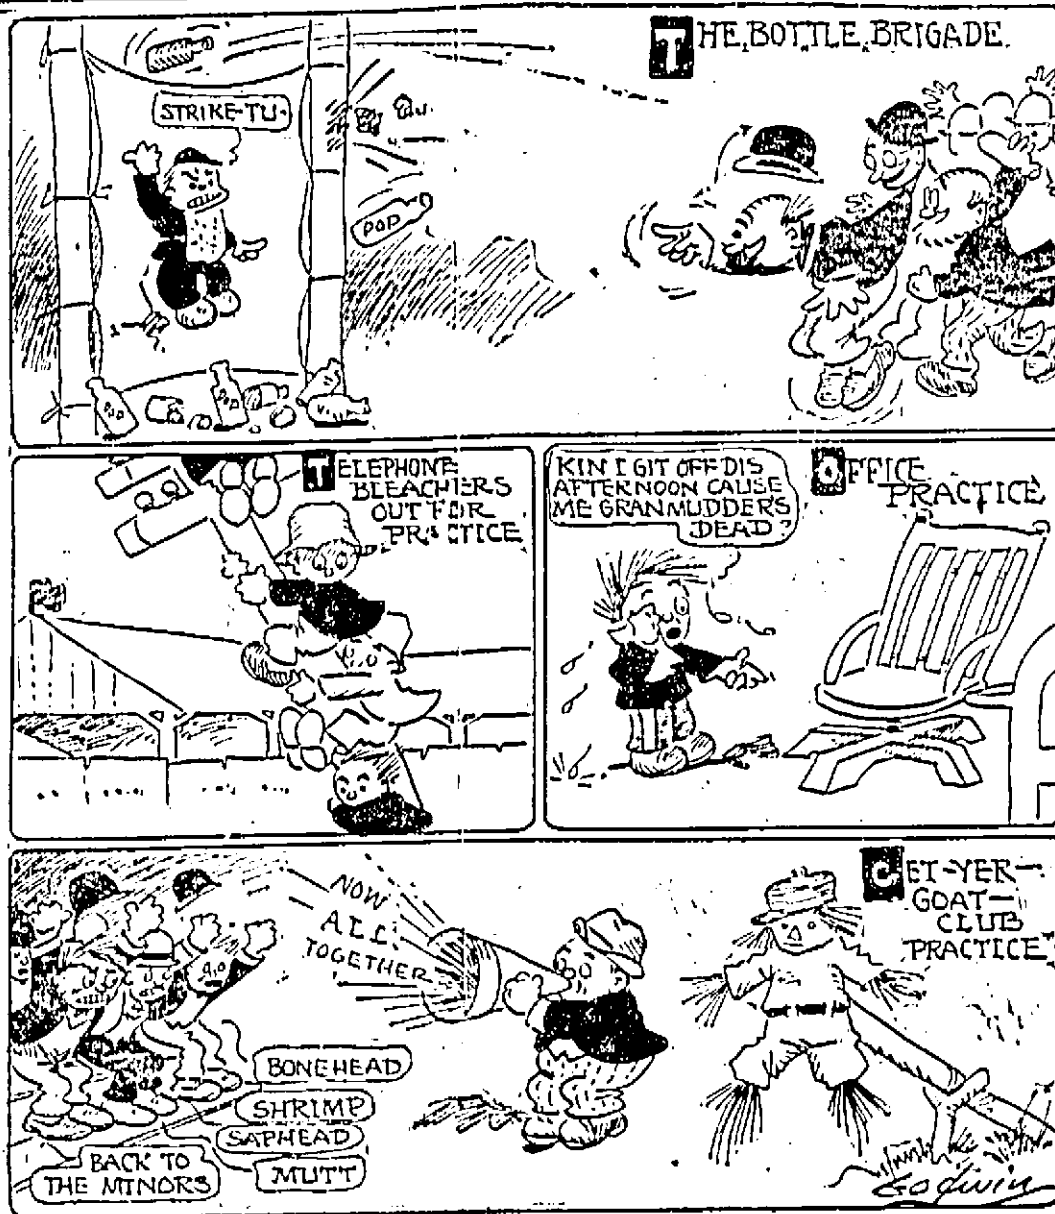

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Madison, March 2.—For the first time in the history of the Wisconsin legislature, members of the Socialist party were today invited to address the assembly by the speaker, Congressman Victor L. Berger, of Milwaukee, with the city's chief executive, Emil Seidel, appeared before the lower house today and expounded Socialism. Berger in speaking of his election to Congress declared he is the first representative of the new idea in government ever elected by the people with the platform extended to present that idea to the people of the whole United States. This, declared Berger, "will be my object as the first Socialist elected to Congress. Mayor Seidel spoke on the Milwaukee home rule bill now pending before the legislature and urged their passage.

Mrs. Eva Child of Hanover was elected state oracle; Mrs. Mabel Drake of Albion, vice-oracle; and Mrs. Dora Fullerton, Milwaukee, state recorder.

QUESTION OF LAW DELAYS HEARINGS

Action In Dietz Matter Has Been Postponed Until Matter Is Settled.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Hayward, Wis., March 2.—Action in the Dietz trial has been again delayed. A question of law has arisen as to whether Dietz, his wife and son Leslie, being charged jointly with the murder of Oscar Harp, can in the event of Mrs. Dietz's non-appearance on account of ill health be tried separately.

District Attorney F. J. Williams holds the position that the law will allow him to proceed with the trial of John Dietz and son and if his ruling is correct he will start the trial Monday. If his claim is not allowed it will mean a further postponement of the case.

MISSOURI SENATE APPROVED OF VOTE

Pass Resolution Approving of Votes of Its Two United States Senators—Against Lorimer.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Jefferson City, Mo., March 2.—The Missouri state senate today adopted a resolution commending Senators Stone and Warner for voting against Lorimer in the United States senate yesterday.

HAS DONE MUCH AT PRESENT SESSION DESPITE DELAYS

House of Representatives Have Accomplished Wonders Considering Short Space of Time To Work.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, D. C., March 2.—A review of the closing session of the sixty-first congress which terminates at noon Saturday shows that the house has enacted an unusually large number of bills of public importance. The senate, however, presents a record of much talk and little action. In thirty-five legislative days the house has not only disposed of fifteen giant appropriation bills, aggregating about $200,000,000 but has discussed the following bills and settled same: Canadian Tariff bill.

Appointment of representatives for the next house (The Crumpacker bill, fixing the membership at 433 instead of 391 as at present). Selecting San Francisco as the site for the Panama-Pacific exposition of 1915.

The Moon bill, codifying the judiciary laws.

The Mann bill, establishing a permanent form of government on the canal zone.

The Lowden bill, for purchase by the government of buildings abroad for American embassies, legations and consulates.

The Sulloway pension bill, appropriating about $35,000,000 annually. The first two of these were a part of the legislative program urged by President Taft. The executive's plan for a ship subsidy, or ocean mail bill was disregarded.

Among the thousands of other measures that will die with the session are the reports of the joint committee which investigated the Hallinger-Pinchot controversy and the resolution to give congressional thanks and the rank of a retired rear-admiral to Captain Robert L. Peary, as discoverer of the north pole.

Resolutions of inquiry and investigation, which so far have failed to be acted upon by the house include one of Wilson (Dem. Pa.) as to the persecution of Mexican political refugees in the United States; by Stanley (Dem. Ky.) to investigate the steel trust; and by Norris (Rep. Neb.) to secure information as to an alleged "coffee trust".

Among the other measures which the house has passed is the Mann bill, providing for inspection of locomotive boilers, and the bill by Representative Hobson (Dem. Ala.) to prevent the disclosure of secrets of the National defense.

The Moon bill for codification of the laws relating to the judiciary, as it passed the house, contained two features of importance. The amendment by Representative Mann (Rep. Ill.) increasing the salaries of the chief justice and Associate Justices of the Supreme Court of the United States by $2,000, raised them to $15,000 and $14,000 respectively, and one by Garrett (Dem. Tenn.) providing that no corporation could remove suits from the state to the Federal courts on the ground of diversity of citizenship.

The senate allowed nearly three months of the session to pass with only doing any work of importance. Speeches took the place of legislation. The Lorimer case furnished unlimited material for the constitutional lawyer and the soaring orator. The resolution for the election of senators by the people and the reciprocity agreement furnished good fields for oratorical revels.

Nearly all the bills passed by the senate concerned the building of dams and bridges across navigable streams, individual claims against the government, District of Columbia laws and about fifty relating to land claims.

SCANDAL IS FEARED AS TO BOER WAR

Publication of Report That Five Men Caused the Boer War Causes Much Trouble.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

London, March 2.—A tremendous scandal is feared and forced explanations from Joseph Chamberlain and Earl Lansdowne, high English officials pertaining to the Boer war are imminent as the result of the charges in the autobiography of Sir William Buller, now dead, but late military commander of South Africa, that the Boer war was brought about by the machinations of five English politicians.

FRACTIONAL LOSSES AT OPENING TODAY

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

New York, March 2.—Fractional losses were made in the leading issues at the opening of the stock market today. Steel common was offered by "Bear" interests but its loss was small. Changes in other issues consisted of losses from one-quarter to five-eighths.

Fears of a tariff revision by the contemplated extra session of congress caused a heavy selling movement in stock on the Exchange late this afternoon which carried the prices down anywhere from one to two and one-half points.

Paterno, a well known cavalry officer and when she refused to elope with him he strangled her and then shot her dead. The lieutenant, a Baron in rank, attempted suicide and is now in a hospital. Every effort to suppress details is being made by the Italian court.

LEGISLATURE HAS MANY BILLS HEARD

Minimum Wages For School Teachers Discussed—National Guard Appropriation.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Madison, March 2.—The senate committee on education has decided to introduce a bill, fixing the minimum wage for school teachers within the state at $55. It was announced today. The senate committee on state affairs today favorably recommended the bill appropriating $150,000 annually to the Wisconsin National Guard.

The assembly committee on elections today recommended the Clarke bill which provides that a member of the legislature may, during the spring elections of a year when the legislature is in session, submit not more than five questions to the voters of his respective district, asking advice how he shall vote on pending measures. It is the consensus of opinion the bill will pass.

RAILROADS SAID TO BE READY TO QUIT

Reported To Have Decided To Give Up Their Plans For Fighting Recent Decision.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, March 2.—Complete submission by railroads to the decision of the Interstate Commerce Commission in the great rate cases within the next seven days was predicted by Commissioner Lane today.

EXTRA SESSION IS A CERTAINTY NOW DUE TO SENATORS

Who Refuse To Allow Anything But the Necessary Bills To Pass At the Present Session.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, March 2.—When the Senate met today with a weary attendance from the late session which ended at 1:35 this morning all hope was abandoned of forestalling an extra session. Dilatory tactics aimed at the bill for a permanent tariff board by Senators Hale republican from Maine, Heyburn, republican from Idaho and Stone democrat from Missouri, last night were taken to indicate from now on until Saturday this time would permit only the passage of the regular appropriation bill. Reciprocity has not the ghost of a show in the present session.

All Hope Lost. The hope of compromise with the Democrats on President Taft's permanent tariff board bill was abandoned by the Republican in the Senate today. They determined on a fight to the finish, even though it should continue all day and throughout the night.

The Democrats relied on a filibuster until 11:15 and then refused all efforts by the Republicans to bring about a vote.

Are Evasive. La Follette's suggestion following many others that a vote be taken at ten o'clock tonight was met by evasive responses. The war flag was then run up by the Republicans.

Reciprocity or Session. Nothing but the passage of the reciprocity bill will prevent an extra session of Congress. The United Press is able to make this statement unofficially today on the strength of information from an authority at the White House close enough to the President to make it authentic.

RAILROADS FIRMER THAN BEFORE SCARE

Their Financial Position Has Improved Materially Within Past Few Days.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

New York, March 2.—That the financial position of the railroads is stronger today than before the Interstate Commerce Commission refused permission to increase freight rates is shown by the announcement that, since the decision was given, $85,000,000 in new railroad and other securities have been disposed of. These include $50,000,000 Central Pacific bonds taken to Paris; $10,000,000 St. Paul and Kansas City short line bonds in New York and London; $12,000,000, 6 per cent notes in New York, and $13,500,000 preferred stock of the Studebaker corporation taken over by building interests.

It is generally accepted here that the stand of the commission against increasing rates has so pleased the big manufacturing interests that they are all preparing for phenomenal business. This naturally will be reflected in increased earnings by the railroads.

Financial experts say that the amount of interest and dividends to be disbursed within the next fifteen days is in excess of $100,000,000, showing an ample margin over last March.

HENEY PREDICTS AN END TO ALL DELAYS

Says Rueff Must Serve His Term In Prison He Was Sentenced to Some Time Ago.

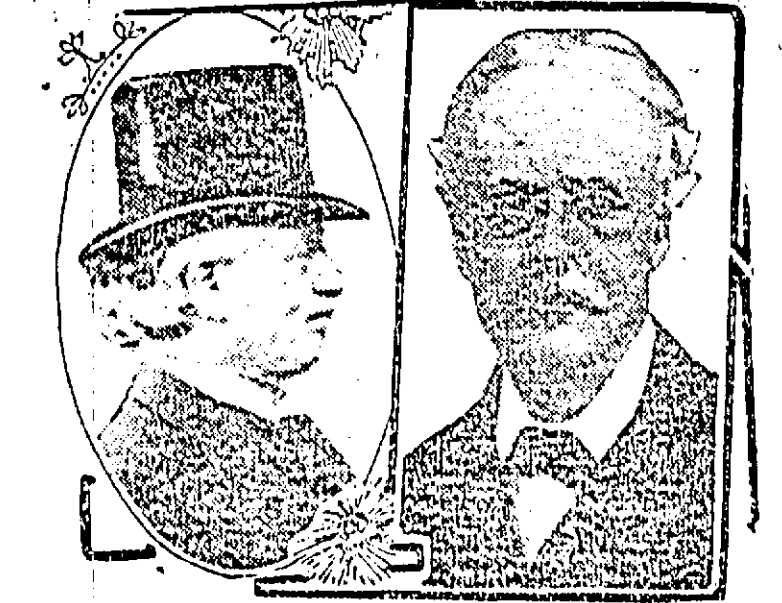

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

San Francisco, Cal., March 2.—Francis J. Heney, the famous graft prosecutor, declared today that the reversal of the decision of the California Supreme Court, refusing to grant a stay of sentence for Alvin Karpis, former political boss, is the result of public opinion against Rueff. Though Rueff threatened to carry his case to the highest tribunal, Heney says the end of the case is in sight, and public opinion will cause Rueff to serve his term of 14 years.

The decision, written by Chairman Prouty, voiding the unanimous decision of the commission, is one of the most far-reaching and drastic decisions ever given by any body of men relative to interstate commerce. Had the advance rates been allowed by the commission it would have meant an increased income annually of $27,000,000.

London.—The greatest revolutionary struggle in a constitutional sense that England has experienced in many generations began in the House of Commons when Premier Asquith introduced the Government bill to abolish the veto power of the House of Lords. If the bill passes it will accomplish the most historic change in the parliamentary system of Great Britain that the country has known since the days of the Septuagint Act of 1715, but it was early apparent that the opposition intended to hamper the government by introducing into the contest the vexatious question of home rule. If the Balfour plan is carried out it means new and unending controversial bitterness and possibly another appeal to the people.

HALL & HUEBEL

NEWS IN LOCAL TOBACCO MARKET

FAIR MOVEMENT IN NEW AND OLD CROPS DURING PAST WEEK IS REPORTED BY DEALERS.

GENERAL ROUTINE ACTIVITY

In Warehouses Handling the 1910 Leaf With Deliveries Made As Weed Is Needed.

Business in the local tobacco market still remains brisk and active although no transactions or deliveries of more than usual importance have been recorded during the past week. All the warehouses which have been running previously continue the work of sorting the new crop and several of them have added to their forces materially. A number of hands have been put on at the T. E. Welsh warehouse increasing his force, and more hands are wanted. P. S. Dulmus is running two forces at present and is handling as much or more of the new crop than any dealer in the city. The American Tobacco company continues to handle a large amount of the leaf and other warehouses are running with about the same forces as at the beginning of the season.

S. B. Hedges has received a considerable amount of the new crop and at present is rushing to start sorting the last of this week if possible. The re-handling of the Fisher and Fisher salvages has delayed matters somewhat there, but most of the work connected with this is now completed. A shortage of help is noticed by the dealers here and a number of them have been looking for some time past for girls. There are plenty of men, as a rule, but the scarcity of female sorters is quite noticeable and is keenly felt. The prices paid the sorters this season are good, ranging as high as eighty and ninety cents, so that the lack of help cannot be attributed to the cause of poor pay.

Among the firms who have received recent consignments of the leaf are Haskins and Schwartz, two cars today from the north; P. S. Dulmus, in the neighborhood of 200,000 pounds during the past week, and varying amounts at the other houses, including the American, S. B. Hedges and others.

There is no noticeable activity in the buying of the old crops here during the past week. There have been several buyers in the city in the last few days including Louis Schuch and a representative of the firm of Crump Bros., Chicago. Deals with a number of the dealers here are in the process of making and by the end of the week a number of large transactions will doubtless have been completed.

It is a matter of satisfaction to the merchants that there is this evidence of demand and that the part of the large dealers at Chicago and in the east to buy up the old leaf. The demand is not likely to be a spasmodic one as evidenced by the fact that some of the new crop has been disposed of. P. S. Dulmus has recently shipped one hundred cases of the new crop to eastern buyers. At the M. F. Green and Sons' warehouse sampling is being done and several hundred cases of the '09 crop are being opened and sampled. It is found to be in good shape, bright and sound, with a fragrant smell, but rather dry. However, it is a matter of gratification that this much abused lot of '09 has stood so well.

One car of the '08 crop is being shipped from the P. S. Dulmus storage warehouse today by Haskins and Schwartz, consigned to eastern dealers. Some old leaf is being handled by C. J. Jones and Son, and other small amounts are being looked over. All the dealers in the city are watching the market closely and are on the lookout for future conditions and prospects.

The senate passed the Callinger ship subsidy bill, and also the following bills, all of which also were passed by the house:

Awarding the Panama exposition to San Francisco.

Appropriating $2,000,000 for a Lincoln memorial in this city.

For inspection of locomotive boilers.

For the purchase of diplomatic establishments.

Authorizing the use of army transport to carry supplies to Chinese famine sufferers.

Hobson act for the punishment of military spies.

The record vote on the election of Senators, Tuesday and the disposal of the Lorimer resolution Wednesday removed two troublesome questions.

No mention has been made in the senate of the report of the committee that conducted the Callinger-Mitch investigation.

The bill for congressional reappointment has been buried in some committee pigeon hole.

In the last three days of the session, the senate faces two months' work on appropriations and scores of other important matters.

HOLDING INSTITUTE AT FOOTVILLE TODAY

One Hundred Interested Listeners Attend Farmers' Gathering at Today's Session.

(By Staff Correspondent.)
Footville, March 2.—This morning's session of the Farmers' Institute, conducted by W. F. Stiles of Pewaukee, was attended by fully seventy men and some twenty odd women who were much interested in the program which was given.

Mr. Stiles explained the various kinds of soil which are to be found in Rock county, their qualities and the rotation of crops was one of the most specific treatments he advocated and one of the most easily handled by the average farmer. He also believed in proper fertilization of fields used for various crops and answered many questions on the subject.

W. A. McKerrow, who is a member of the Livestock Sanitary Commission and one of the most earnest advocates of the tuberculin test for all cattle, explained at length the tuberculin test, where the state obtained the tuberculin used and what the effects were upon the cattle. He advocated the test by all farmers, most strongly, and stated that the dread disease was communicated to children by their drinking milk from diseased cattle. He thought the more on the part of farmers to block the present law by seeking to have it repealed was most foolish.

He spoke about the quarters of an hour and then answered a rapid fire of questions hurled at him from all parts of the room by men who had evidently come prepared for the occasion. These he answered and the audience took his talk most earnestly, showing their appreciation of marked approval.

This afternoon C. E. Matterson gave a most descriptive talk on poultry which was much enjoyed by the ladies present and brought forth many questions. He was followed by W. A. McKerrow, who talked on sheep, and as he is one of the most successful sheep raisers in the state his talk was most instructive.

M. Michaels of Peabody was the last speaker of the afternoon session and talked on "Silos and Slugs." His was a most interesting and instructive talk and gave the average farmer an opportunity of learning much of the benefits of the silo system for handling feed for their cattle and keeping the quality up. As a saving on a farm his worth was demonstrated.

This evening there will be a concert arranged by the local talent. There will be music by the orchestra, followed by a song by the second and third grades of the city school. County Superintendent Antdel will make an address. Miss Josephine Tallard will give a reading, Clifton Fish a vocal solo, Hazel Hastings a reading, Dolly Strang a vocal solo, and Daisy Spencer a reading. Mr. Stiles will give a talk on "Farmers and Education" and the concert will close by a selection of the orchestra. The morning session was attended by the upper class of the local school which was dismissed for this purpose.

Motley Horde Seeks Man Who Promises Home Comforts.

Texas Advertiser for 4,000 Settlers—Promises to Furnish Expert Teachers, Seed, and Tools for Working Land.

New York.—Manager Copeland Townsend of the Imperial, is trying to figure out whether Theodore Roosevelt, the practical joker, who almost a century ago sent half the tradesmen of London to the houses of modest citizens, with wagons and drays, bearing everything from hairpins to pianos, has not come to life in the person of a man, who described himself, on the register of the hotel as "O. L. Williams, of Texas."

Meantime George Burrell, the room clerk, and Adam Lauder, the Scotch laird who presides over the information desk, are growing gray telling inquirers that Mr. Williams has left the hotel; that they know nothing about the 4,000 free acre farms in Texas which Mr. Williams says he is giving away.

Letters and notes accumulate by the stack every day, and citizens of every origin under the sun and would-be citizens who have been here only a week are making the lobby of the Imperial look at times like Ellis Island just after a ship from Libau has discharged its human cargo.

Mr. Williams arrived at the Imperial on October 27 and took a modest $2 room. After a few days, he was changed to a large room and bath, and then he notified some of the papers that he was in town and had some news. He paid his bill about 5 o'clock on the afternoon of the day before the story appeared and has not since been seen. When he left he gave the address of a little town in the extreme north of Texas near the Oklahoma line.

In an interview with Mr. Williams which appeared last Saturday, he was described as the representative of an alliance of commercial and industrial organizations and boards of trade and said he wanted to find 4,000 young men who were not afraid to work.

"Our association," he said, "will give each a deed to a five acre farm and expert farmers will teach him agriculture, horticulture and the art of getting enormous crops from the Texas soil and not only land, but a four room cottage with each five acres, without a dollar of expense."

Besides, we will furnish teams, tools, seeds and other equipment for working the land, supply provisions, medical attendance and library facilities for one year free. The title to the homes and lands is to be permanent."

Inquiries for Mr. Williams started coming to the hotel early Saturday morning. "The earliest camera seemed, according to the clerks, to be just the kind of colonists Mr. Williams said he was seeking, young men of American birth. Some of the local foreign papers copied the story Saturday afternoon and Sunday morning and the result was that a steady stream has been pouring into the Imperial lobby ever since, and there-out."

One caller was a long-whiskered man, from the lower east side. He said he wanted a farm. He was told there was none in the hotel just then. "Who has the farm for you," asked the clerk.

"Villyuma," was the reply. "He's in Texas," said the clerk. "Vero is dot?"

"On the railroad," "Den I got a ticket," and he was directed to a railroad office down the street.

Two young Italians came in. One could speak English, the other could not. The first said that he had been scurrying about among his friends and had got a colony of fifty young men, including a doctor, who were prepared to accept the farms and go to Texas immediately provided Mr. Williams would add the railway fare to other allowances held out.

Venerable Pennsylvania Woman Declares Tobacco Is Helpful to Her—Pleasing Pastime.

Earlville, Pa.—In Amity township, that gave America the early ancestors of Abraham Lincoln and Nancy Hanks and sent Daniel Boone to the Kentucky borders, there was a gathering in honor of Berka county's most remarkable living woman, Mrs. Nellie Shrey. She celebrated her ninety-eighth birthday, and five hundred other Berka countians helped to make the event a happy one for this venerable woman, who had reared twelve children to manhood and to womanhood.

She could hardly believe that she was so near the one-hundred-year mark, and said it seemed but yesterday when she saw some of her sons go to the Civil war to fight for their country.

Five generations were present and saw her light her old clay pipe, for smoking is her pleasantest pastime. To the use of tobacco and frugal living she attributes her longevity.

TRAIN APPLE EATER

How Consumers' League Finds Numerous Recruits.

Members Go About Calling for Fruit and When Restaurants and Hotels Refuse Demands Lives Made Miserable.

New York.—A farmer living near Scranton, Pa., disposed of his surplus apples, windfalls, etc., by shipping them to town to be distributed to the children of the factory district.

This is a good way to dispose of cull apples. Every one of these children will become an apple eater and will never get over the habit. We need not fear a surplus of apples in the future while such an army is being trained, says a writer in Rural New Yorker. Every year at this time some one comes asking what the Apple Consumers' league is. It happened that about a dozen years ago the writer had dinner at a well-known New York restaurant. He became apple hungry, but it was impossible to find baked apples or apple sauce on the bill of fare. He called a waiter and put up a hard complaint. In a short time a very polite man came like one who seeks to side-step trouble and about the following dialogue was spoken:

"I hope there is nothing wrong with the food."
"Why, it isn't all here!"
"What is lacking?"
"Apple! Many of us were born in the country and brought up on apples. We like them and want to go where they are served. Why do you not offer baked apple and apple sauce? This is a first-class restaurant—why not make it complete?"

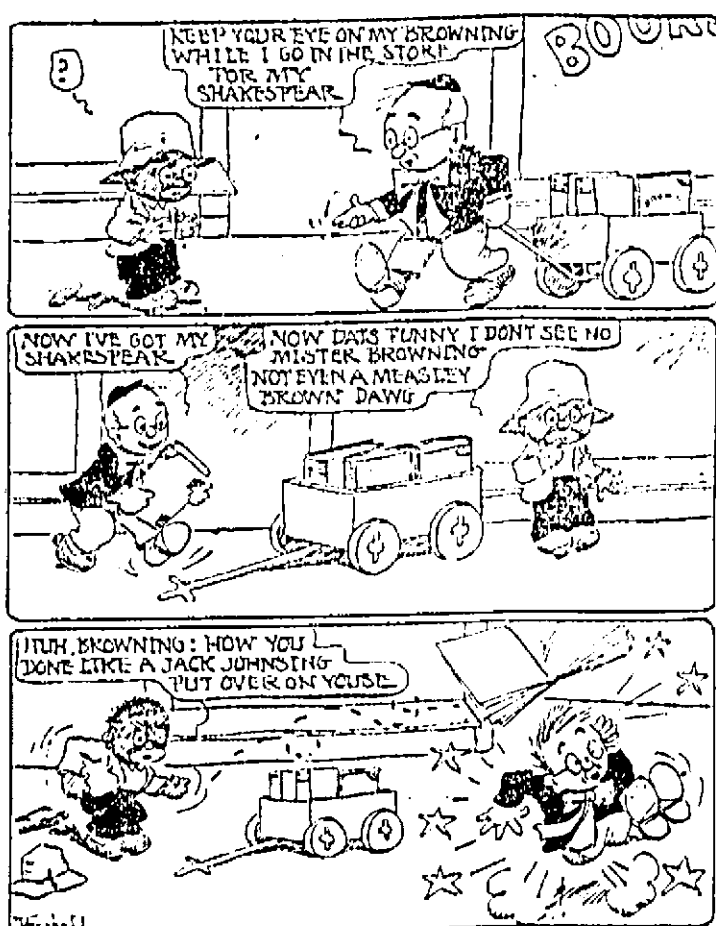

The manager looked around and saw a dozen heads nod with "That's right!" He was a wise man and merely said: "Well, gentlemen, I'll get them. Thank you for the suggestion."
The next day "Baked Apple and Cream" was written in red ink on the bill of fare. There was a rush for the apples that started the restaurant managers, and several barrels are now served there every week. That suggested the Apple Consumers' league, and we began at once to spread the work. We went about calling for apple, and when the restaurants and hotels failed to offer the fruit we made it our business to make life a burden to the managers. The apple army grew like magic and ere long thousands of travelers took up the refrain. Up to that time the dish of fruit on hotel tables contained bananas and oranges. We filled up these dishes with apples, and made baked apple a fair partner with sliced oranges. There can be no doubt that this simple organization has increased the consumption of apples by 20 per cent.

Some amusing things have grown out of it. The Pennsylvania Horticultural society met at Gettysburg one year. This is the heart of the famous York imperial section, yet there was not even the smell of an apple about the hotel. Some 20 or more guests began to call for apples, and kept it up at supper until the proprietor sent out and bought some Ben Davis, which he served raw. For breakfast the baked fruit came on piping hot.

When the New York fruit growers met at Penn Yan there was served at dinner an apple pie "like mother used to make." The writer found that the hotel cook was a woman and he suggested that who ought to be made an honorary member of the association as a woman who "could take a handful of flour, a lump of butter and sugar and even a Ben Davis apple and make a pie that would induce a man to buy a sealskin coat for his mother-in-law." At the next meal at the hotel there was such a call for apple pie as nearly to bankrupt the kitchen.

98 Per Cent of the World's Creameries Use DE LAVAL CREAM SEPARATORS

Ten years ago there were a dozen different makes of creamery or factory separators in use. Today over 98 per cent of the world's creameries use DE LAVAL separators exclusively.

It means a difference of several thousand dollars a year whether a DE LAVAL or some other make of separator is used in a creamery.

Exactly the same differences exist, on a smaller scale, in the use of FARM separators. But the farm user doesn't know it. Nine times out of ten he can't tell when he is wasting $50 or $100 a year in quantity and quality of product through the use of an inferior separator.

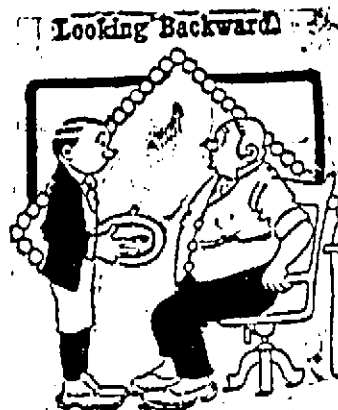

There can be no better recommendation for the DE LAVAL than the fact that the men who make the separation of milk a business use the DE LAVAL to the practical exclusion of all other separators.

THE EDITORIAL WRITER.

In the following excerpt from a recent editorial in an eastern publication the real methods to be pursued by an editorial writer is depicted. In so much as it is a remarkable dissertation on the gentle art of moulding public opinion it is given space in these columns.

"When Arthur Pendennis definitely embarked upon the career of a journalist he disposed of great questions, as the reader will remember, with remarkable ease and what Huxley, if we remember aright, called cocksureness. Editorials upon foreign politics that should affect whole groups of nations or reviews of works that had cost a man of genius years of labor and mighty learning to compose, all were alike to Pendennis. He went to the office of his newspaper, looked over the favorable subjects for the day's or evening's work, whether the Spanish marriage or Galt's history, jotted down a few memoranda, retired to the reading-room of the British Museum, and in a few hours there you had it, the anonymous and valuable opinion of an editor, perfumed with the fragrance of printer's ink and moist from the press. He slept soundly at night, and though he was too much of a dandy and had some very vulgar weaknesses, he was an honest man, according to his lights and that illumination afforded him by the ways of most of his colleagues.

"This method of livelihood sounds like a Golem's pen and ink. Day these useful articles, or if one runs to a typewriter, buy that; write for the press, but write with a good deal of certainty and authority; and if anything is easier, say what it is. But that is only one view of the situation and only one way of meeting it. Pendennis' methods were not ill natured or ill intentioned, and no doubt they did very well for him and his readers, for it is chronicled that this work and some novels and some property he had from his parents made him prosperous. We doubt whether he could repeat his success today, for the functions of the writer of editorials are not altogether easy.

He must meet the demands of honesty, of responsibility, of quality and of enlightenment, which latter is not always shown by a championship of anything and everything that differs from what has been.

"He must meet the demands of honesty. These are not satisfied when he refrains from taking his neighbor's umbrella; he must do a great deal more, he must faithfully and jealously guard the interests of that public which trusts him, which really looks to him not only for a great deal of information but much guidance, and admits him as a friend to its fireside, there to talk to women and children, oftentimes to lead their pleasures and to color their views. He is confided in, he is deferred to, he is constantly asked, 'What do you think about this question?' and his answer must be the more responsible, because he has virtually claimed for himself the right to give it, and claimed it touching all manner of subjects that come before men's attention. Modern society for centuries has had small opinion of the trustee that shakes his trust and pockets his emoluments, and the journalist is today the trustee of a public that needs, and needs keenly, a good trustee. The journalist stands at the head of the public's reservoir of information and advice, and as he keeps it pure and clear will be rewarded. As he lets it be polluted or tainted will be rewarded also, but in justice's sterner metal.

"The journalist is under no sort of duty to say what the public will like with a will; he must tell the public the facts, but he is under no duty to give them facts that can never be anything else than worthless. He is best serving the public when he says honestly and plainly what his opinion is on a subject, otherwise he had best leave it alone and confine himself to Shakespeare and the musical glasses. It is all very fine to talk largely about moulding public opinion, but it is no part of a journalist's work to put it. It is to be remembered that responsibility is a make-weight and that it balances, and the sense of responsibility is great that comes to one who knows that what he writes will, in a few hours, be read by thousands.

"Each reader of his paper is an argument for care, for justice and for that honor that guards the welfare of one's brother man. Each reader tacitly asks him to tell the truth, to give good advice and to voice what to the best of the writer's opinion is the reasonable and wholesome opinion that he hopes his readers will adopt or have already. The editorial writer does not exercise his functions for the purpose of inflaming prejudice, of distorting generous views, of fostering hatred and envy. His work is to do the opposite of all these things and to march with his readers into the light and not away from it. His cry must be that of valorous thanksgiving, not that of irritable despair, for he is the watchman of much of the people's hope.

"He must meet the demands for quality, and by quality we mean the best in everything that is good. He must write good English, for that is the only English. He cannot make any trace with slipshod words or construction or style, he must write with such respect for his audience and himself that it will see the compliment he pays it and take this as its sign. He must in season and out of season tell the people and show the people that they speak the beautiful homely tongue of Wyclif and Bunyan and George Fox, that it belongs to them, it theirs to speak and write; that the splendid words of David's chants and the glowing comfort of the Gospel are written in a tongue that must not be diluted by ignorance and carelessness, but nurtured to the profit of all. It is a pretty courageous man that tells the public he does not give it the best because it can only understand the second rate; any that care to defend such a thesis are welcome to do so."

CIVIC RESPONSIBILITY.

It is the duty of every citizen to take an interest in politics. It is not only the inherent right of citizens to vote at primaries, but also to take enough interest in the candidates that are to be selected, to see that good men's names are placed on the primary ballots to be voted for. The voters are responsible for the city government. Their votes choose the men who are to represent their interests in the mayor's chair, in the city clerk's office, in the council chamber and on the county board. If they take no interest in the selection of the candidates for these offices then they should not blame the men elected if they do not act in a manner that suits them when it comes to handling the city's government. Thus far, with the exception of the Fourth ward, there seems to be a lack of interest in possible candidates, and but few aspirants for office have appeared. In the First, Second and Third wards the republicans have the only candidates out for aldermanic positions, and in the Fourth and Fifth the democratic candidates have the field to themselves, with the exception of the Fourth, where there is a contest for the democratic nomination. Now is the time for those who are not satisfied with the manner in which the city's business may be run to make their protest and not wait until after election. It is the duty of every citizen to see that his interests and the city's interests are handled in the best manner possible and one which he should not shrink the responsibility of.

The United States senate has decided the Lorimer matter and has given the Illinois statesman a Scotch verdict. The vote was close enough to be interesting and while his friends are jubilant the matter has taken much valuable time of the senate in long, windy arguments, that might well have been dispensed with, and some actual work accomplished. However it is all over now and it is no use crying over spilt milk.

The strike in the Chicago newspaper shops has been called off. It was a senseless piece of business anyway and the manner in which it was handled by the Publishers' association of that city deserves more than favorable comment.

That county stone pile does not appeal to the delicate tastes of the regulars who pay extended visits to the battle, which is kept at the expense of the taxpayers for the delinquent members of society. If they do not approve of it then the county board should.

It is with regret that it is learned that the county board made a technical error in appointing one of its own members as a member of the county training school board. However, it will only delay matters a trifle and no great harm is done.

The state legislature is making every effort possible to expedite matters by holding evening sessions and confining the committee work to the daytime. It is a good movement and one which should bring results.

Janesville is to have a surfeit of musical and high dramatic entertainments within the next few weeks, and it speaks well for a community if they can support such gatherings of noted musicians and artists.

Governor McGovern seems to be able to hold forth in Bachelor Hall even if there are many longing eyes set upon the gubernatorial mansion by aspiring women who would be the first lady in the state.

Congress will find that Taft is not fooling when he talks of an extra session if they do not get through with the present business to be considered before adjournment.

Janesville business men are very much in earnest in their efforts to help Janesville to grow. Present indications are that the present year will see radical changes in the city for the better.

Despite the fact that the Kaiser of Germany has forty autos he can not ride in more than one of them at a time, even if he is King of Prussia and Grand Duke of this or that principality.

Milwaukee is wondering how it is going to handle that Stern law now that it has it actually ready for operation.

THE POET PHILOSOPHER

(Copyright, 1909, by George Matthews Adams.)
By WALT MASON.

One man who is dismal and grim as a storm, with grief that aghast disheartens the crowd, I know of a dealer in pickles and tin, who hates a grin, who prances the floor on, and scowls at his clerk, and seems to be sore on the counterpane. He thinks that good humor is foolish and vain, and carries a tumor instead of a brain. His clerk wouldn't care if they saw him no more; and some day the sheriff will close up his store. His patrons grow weary of such a sour dog; they find things less dreary around at the morgue. I know of a grafter in rate and jute hair, whose jubilant laughter resounds in his lair. His mirth is outrageous, but serving good ends, for it is contagious, and brings him in friends. The salesman who tinkers around in his store all day he's a clunker—what man could ask more? I say that your scowling costs more than a grin, and grunting and growling are stupid as sin.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

KILLING SANTA CLAUS.

"Fifty years from now there will be no Santa Claus."

Thus a gratuitous critic who does not like the chubby saint who, joy laden, squeezes down so many chimneys.

He is a false prophet. Centuries before the critic was ever thought of Santa Claus was. And when the memory of the critic's day has altered into the mists of tradition Santa Claus will be.

So long as the birds sing and the water runs and the snows alternate the grasses so long will Santa flourish.

He lives in the hearts of little children and all the folk of childlike hearts.

Because—

Though he may be a little crude because of his earlier traditions, he is nevertheless an embodiment of the Christlike spirit.

And though the children may not understand nor we yet the spirit of the saint is the spirit of that morning song—

Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will among men!

Forever and forever to the contrite heart, to the children and to the humble and meek of earth the glory comes.

It may miss the mansions of the rich, but into the homes of God's common folk, unpossessed by pride or self, comes "the olden, golden glory."

And how shall you be able to pluck away the heart of such a mystery?

Why, you must pluck away all faith and wonder from the hopes of childhood; you must pluck away from human breasts all mother love and father love.

No, no!

The heart of the world is not so cruel. It would a charity make of good St. Nicholas.

You may give his soul a pain by your commercial spirit, but he himself is deathless.

Fifty years hence!

Will the breath of romance die in fifty years or fifty centuries? Will childhood ever be also than childhood? Will the spirit of the Christ child ever die?

How good, kind Santa Claus must smile at prophecies of his untimely death!

OBITUARY.

Mrs. William Quade.
Mrs. William Quade was called by death last evening shortly before nine o'clock at her home in the town of La Prairie. She had suffered for the past five years with consumption and was thirty-two years of age. Besides her husband she leaves four small children. The funeral will be held tomorrow at twelve o'clock from the home and at two o'clock from St. John's Lutheran church in this city. Interment will be made in Oak Hill cemetery.

EXTENSIVE PREPARATIONS FOR A UNION MEETING OF MEN'S CLUBS OF CHURCHES

Between Three and Four Hundred Men Are Expected at First Union Meeting at Baptist Church, March 8.

Extensive preparations are being made for the first union meeting of the men's clubs of the churches of the city, which will be held at the parlors of the Baptist church, next Wednesday, March 8. The ladies of the Baptist church, who have the supper in charge, are making ready for between three hundred and three hundred and fifty guests.

An excellent musical program has been arranged. The Baptist church orchestra will furnish music during the supper hour, which is set for 6:30, and Prof. J. E. Taylor is training a choir of twenty-five male voices to sing several selections. The treasurers of the various clubs have charge of the ticket sale.

YESTERDAY WAS BUSY DAY IN REGISTER OF DEEDS' OFFICE

Eighty Papers of Various Descriptions Were Placed on Record Wednesday.

Yesterday was one of the busiest and, perhaps, the busiest day in the history of the register of deeds' office. Eighty papers covering various matters were placed on file, which is more than has been done there for some years past. Today a realty transfer was recorded which involved the sale of property in the town of Magnolia by Clara and H. L. Andrews to Oliver and George W. Farn. The consideration was $10,000.

Edward Simmons and his wife, Isabel Simmons, transferred property in the town of Janesville to Charles E. Sweeney of the city of Edgerton for the consideration of $11,000.

CHARGES AGAINST MAN NOT PRESSED

A. Richards, Arrested For Tampering With Alarm Box, Thought To Have Been Shielding Girl Friend.

Convinced that A. Richards, last night for tampering with a fire alarm box, was not responsible for the act, but merely trying to shield a young lady friend who was in his company when the alarm box was tampered with, the authorities today made no complaint against the man and he was allowed to go. A false alarm of fire was rung from box 34 at the corner of South Third and East streets last night about half past ten. When the wagons arrived, Richards had been caught and was being held by Edward Carpenter. Mr. Carpenter turned the man over to the firemen who took Richards to the fire station. He was arrested there by Officer Sam Brown. The young man was later released on his promise to appear in the city this morning. Richards told Fire Chief Klein last night that he and his friend had found the door of the alarm box swinging open and, thinking it a small box, had tried to close it. The story, however, was not satisfactory to the chief, as the lever which sends in the alarm has to lift a three pound weight. Information from persons living near the corner where the alarm box is situated tended to corroborate the theory that the young woman was the responsible party. Richards lives on a farm near Milton about eight miles from this city.

REAL COUNTESS HAS REAL HAREM SKIRT

Noted Russian Dancer Here This Evening Will Wear To Wear Much Mottled Garment In Janesville.

Janesville lovers of the art and the beautiful will have a rare opportunity this evening of witnessing what is considered by critics as the best artistic dancing on the American stage today. Unfortunately the rumor is prevalent that the entertainment is not really classical but special attention is called to the fact that the Countess de Swirsky has appeared at the largest theatres in Chicago and Milwaukee before audiences which were crowded with the fashionable and society leaders of the two cities and has received columns of notices from the most critical of the Chicago dramatic critics. The Countess also has the distinction of having worn the first harem skirt in America. It is said she will wear it during her visit to Janesville while going to and from the theatre this evening.

CHILDREN VISITED SHOE REPAIR SHOP

Jefferson School Kindergarten At Brown Bros. Shoe Store—Adams School Children At Fire Station.

About forty children of the Jefferson school kindergarten, in charge of Miss Ethel and Miss Josephine Treat, visited the shoe store of Brown Bros. this morning to watch the shoe maker at his work. The various processes and modern methods used in his labor were exhibited for the benefit of the youngsters, who took a lively interest in the work.

Yesterday morning the kindergarten class of the Adams school made a trip of inspection to the East Side fire station. The children were shown through the entire building, looked at the horses, sat in the wagons, and a favored few enjoyed the privilege of sitting down the pole in the arms of a fireman.

GAMES LAST NIGHT IN BILLIARD TOURNAMENT

Dr. Thuerer Lost To E. J. Smith and A. J. Harris Won From H. S. Johnson in Handicap.

In a billiard game at the Hookett alley in the three cushion tournament, E. J. Smith last night defeated Dr. C. H. Thuerer 25 to 12, in 62 innings. Smith made a high run of 3. A. J. Harris and H. S. Johnson played a handicap game, Harris winning 25 to 20, in 106 innings. Both players made high runs of two. On Friday night Ed. Thompson will be matched against A. J. Harris and Vern Murdoch will play Al Gridley.

MONITOR AUTOS FOR LOCAL MERCHANTS

Fifield Lumber Company and Roessler Brothers Have Purchased New Models For Business Use.

That Monitor auto trucks are meeting with favor among the merchants is shown by the fact that two firms, the Fifield Lumber Company and Roessler Brothers, have purchased cars to use for delivery purposes. The car for the Fifield Company is made especially for the handling of lumber and is equipped with a platform that will carry both short and long timbers. This car is designated at 1911 model B. The car for Roessler Brothers is the regular light delivery truck fitted with a top and is known as model B 109.

Other merchants of the city are seriously considering the matter of buying one of these trucks and sales at home will probably be reported in the near future.

Between 500 and 550 cars will be put out by the company this season, according to a statement today by J. S. Norling, secretary of the concern. Present prospects are bright, and several cars have been shipped during the past week. Today one was sent to parties in Colorado Springs, and parties in St. Louis and Jacksonville, Ill., have recently received cars.

NOMINATION PAPERS COMING IN RAPIDLY

Candidates Making Haste to Secure Required Number of Signatures in Allotted Time.

Seekers after office are bringing their nomination papers into the office of the city clerk daily and filling them there in order that their names may be inserted on the printed list previous to the primary election and entered on the ballots. Most of those who desire to be candidates for nomination this spring have taken out their papers, although all are not yet returned. The number of signatures required, however, is not large, and should not require much time to secure. Roy M. Cummings, the present city clerk, seeks the office again, and papers for the nomination on the Republican ticket have been returned from the five wards. Fred M. Marsh, who is a candidate for the Republican nomination as leader of weights and measures, has filed papers bearing the signatures of electors in the First, Second, Fourth and Fifth wards. Charles H. Lange, Republican, candidate for the nomination as Justice of the peace to succeed himself, has his papers all in and Dr. S. D. Buckmaster, who has served the city as school commissioner for a number of years, is also seeking reelection, having filed his nomination papers from the Second and Fifth wards. The only returns made thus far on the nomination papers of James P. Hill, Republican candidate for the nomination as mayor, are from the Second Ward. The papers are being passed quite freely and the required number of signatures will soon be secured.

The prohibitionists have taken out papers for all of their candidates, but have as yet filed none.

LAKOTA CARDINALS TO PLAY SATURDAY

Lane Technical School Five of Chicago Will Meet Locals.

On Saturday night at the West Side roller rink the Lakota Cardinals will play the basketball team of the Lane Technical school of Chicago. The Chicago five are the holders of the trophy in the Tribune contest for high schools. It was planned to close the rink last Saturday but Will Langdon, floor manager of the rink and manager of the Cardinals, has rented the building from James Connors and will have charge of it during the month of March, keeping it open only on Saturdays, afternoon and evening. Arrangements are being made to play a game of basketball every Saturday evening during this month.

Who Is Alice?

It would have been impossible for him to look a particle more devoted than he did. His attitude as he walked beside her was perfectly satisfactory, for she knew that everybody could see he belonged to her. Being a woman, this made her happy.

"It's been so long since we've been away," he told her for the eleventh time. "Has it, truly?" she inquired tenderly, also for the eleventh time. "You never can know," he proceeded, "how desolate I was with nothing to do. Why, Alice, I—"

"Alice!" she interrupted sharply. For her name was Mabel. "Er—Mabel, I mean, of course!" said the young man hastily. "Who is Alice?" demanded the young woman frigidly, adding a foot to the space between them.

"Alice? Ha! Ha! Why, there isn't any!" declared the young man vivaciously. "It certainly is a joke for me to call you Alice when it isn't your name! I—"

"She must be pretty much on your mind," insisted the young woman coldly. "When you go around calling every other girl by her name! You never mentioned any Alice to me in your letters!"

"Now, Mabel!" pleaded the young man, "why make a fuss over a mere slip of the tongue? Just as I spoke an automobile went by with a girl in it who reminded me of a girl I used to know in school whose name was Alice, and—"

"Your mind works quickly!" scoffed the young woman. "But I can always tell a mercenary excuse from one that's all-wool and the regulation width! You might just as well—oh, you have been going around with Alice Speckerson while I was away? I'd forgotten all about her—and she was crazy about you when she met you at that dance. If—"

"Not!" insisted the young man. "It was not Alice Speckerson, for she was away, too."

"Then what Alice was it?" the young woman demanded, sternly. "You have practically admitted that there was an Alice. You needn't try to deceive me! You might as well tell me first at last, because—"

"Mabel," said the young man, gathering all his forces and speaking reproachfully. "I hate to see you getting all worked up about something that is purely imaginary. Let's go in here and get some candy—"

"Harry Pandill!" cried the young woman, "don't try to distract me from the subject! I guess I'm more than sixteen years old—"

"You don't look it," interrupted the young man hastily, seeing his chance. She merely held her nose higher in the air. "I am waiting," she reminded him in a tragedy voice. "Who is the girl named Alice that you are so in love with that you can't think of anybody else and that you have to talk about to every one whether any one is interested or not? And when you were writing me that you were worrying yourself thin because I was away. And you were running around instead with somebody named Alice, and—"

"A fellow cannot sit in his room and stare at the wall every night for two months!" protested the young man. "He's got to do something—not that I was running around with any Alice! I read lots while you were away—and the last book was that ancient one, 'Alice of Old Vincennes.' It always was a favorite of mine and I've had it in mind so much it's no wonder—"

"Pooh!" cried the young woman violently. "You never can make me believe."

"Mabel!" cried the young man earnestly. "You don't mean to say that you doubt me? Don't you believe what I tell you?"

He looked so stern that the young woman faltered a bit. "Well," she said, "it's kind of funny when you go around calling me by some other girl's name. Do you mean to say, Harry Pandill, that there really wasn't any Alice?"

"You heard what I said!" remarked the young man in a pained voice. "Really, I can't tell you how it came to have you, of all the world, think for a minute that I was trying to conceal something!"

"Why, Harry?" said the young woman, "of course I didn't mean to hurt your feelings! I had no idea you'd take it like this! I believe I was excited and nervous. I—I've done it myself. I remember calling a man by my poodle's name once, absent-mindedly. Only I thought for a minute—"

"Don't say any more about it," interrupted the young man with impulsive kindness. "I'll forgive it, Mabel. Only I hope in future you'll trust me!"

"I'll never doubt you again, Harry," said the young woman. "You've always shown me how silly I was!"

"I'm glad you see it that way," said the young man, magnanimously. "Then he said to himself: 'Good! That was a close call!'"

TAFT HONORS BOUTELL

ILLINOISAN NOMINATED AS MINISTER TO PORTUGAL

Has Served During Six Congresses and Is Regarded Well Equipped for Position.

Washington, Mar. 2.—President Taft sent to the senate the name of Representative Henry B. Boutell of Illinois for the post of envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary to Portugal, in place of Henry T. Gage, resigned on account of illness.

Representative Boutell comes from Chicago and has been a Republican member of the house during six congresses. He will be succeeded in the new house by Lynden Evans, a Democrat.

The selection of Mr. Boutell for a high diplomatic position is regarded with favor by the Illinois delegation, especially since he has always been regarded as the scholar of that representation. For years he has made a study of international law, and when in college took honors in the subject.

It is not known when the new minister to Portugal will take up his duties in Lisbon, where he is to reside. The salary of the post in Portugal is $10,000 a year.

DUTCH ARE BOUND FOR WEST

Eighty Families, Advance Guard of Thousands, Are on Way to Iowa and North Dakota.

New York, Mar. 2.—Eighty Dutch farmers and their families arrived here aboard the Holland-American liner Noordam on their way to Iowa and North Dakota, the advance guard of seven or eight thousand farmers who will leave Holland within the next few weeks to take up land in the western United States.

The exodus from the old country, the farmers said, was due to the oppressive methods of the landlords in the Netherlands, who have increased the rent on their property until it is now almost impossible to make a living tilling the soil.

Philadelphia, Mar. 2.—The first prosecution brought by the state dairy and food commission against dealers who dye fish and palm it off here and in New York as the genuine smoked article, resulted in the firm of S. Skirrow & Sons pleading guilty. Magistrate Heaton imposed fines and costs amounting to $264.

Charles H. La Wall, chemist for the state commission, was given samples of the fish. He extracted enough coloring matter to dye pieces of wool. In smoking fish to the right color there is a loss of 15 pounds to every hundred pounds smoked. But when dye is applied there is no loss.

Mrs. Booth granted decree.

Most Beautiful Woman in Baltimore Is Given Divorce From Her Husband, Alfred E.

Baltimore, Md., Mar. 2.—Mrs. Ryde Shrylock Booth, known as the most beautiful woman in Baltimore, has been granted a divorce from her husband, Gen. Alfred E. Booth. The decree was handed down at Philadelphia.

The differences between Mrs. Booth and General Booth, who was at one time one of the wealthiest men in Baltimore, came closely on the heels of the loss of his fortune through the bankruptcy of A. Booth & Co. of Chicago, the so-called fish trust.

Mitchell quits civic body.

Forced to Choose Between Two Organizations, Retains Membership in United Mine Workers.

New York, Mar. 2.—John Mitchell, formerly head of the United Mine Workers of America, and lately chairman of the National Civic Federation, made public his resignation of his office and membership in the latter organization. It was also announced that President Seth Low of the Civic Federation had accepted the resignation.

Mr. Mitchell's severance of relations with the Civic Federation follows the stand recently taken by the United Mine Workers in declaring that any member of their organization accepting a position with the National Civic Federation would thereby forfeit membership in the union. With this choice placed before Mr. Mitchell he decided to resign from the Civic Federation.

MICHIGAN DEMOCRATS MEET

Convention Names State Ticket and Declares in Favor of Reciprocity With Canada.

Muskegon, Mich., Mar. 2.—The Democratic state convention here nominated the following ticket:

Justices of the Supreme Court—John E. Kinnane of Bay City and H. A. Sanford of Mount Pleasant.

Regents of the University—John W. Anderson of Detroit, and Dr. Henry S. Kromers of Holland.

Members of the State Board of Agriculture—John A. Weston of Lansing and A. E. Stevenson of Port Huron.

Member State Board of Education—Dr. James A. King of Muskegon.

Superintendent of Public Instruction—Prof. John B. Cleveland of Muskegon.

The platform adopted declares for reciprocity with Canada, reaffirms belief in the initiative, referendum and recall, and charges the Republican state legislature with "filibuster inactivity," declaring that the grand total of legislative enactment thus far being "an immunity bill which seems to be the variety of enactment just now appropriate to and popular with the Republican party."

CLARA MORRIS GOES BLIND

Actress, Feeling Her Life Is Short, Works Night and Day on Her Memoirs.

Yonkers, N. Y., Mar. 2.—Clara Morris' birthday will mark the completion of the first year of her falling eyesight and general breakdown. She is now almost totally blind and, realizing that she cannot live long, is working day and night dictating her memoirs.

The stricken actress derives her greatest pleasure from listening to music from grand operas played at her bedside by a phonograph.

O. K. HONDURAS PACT

SENATE COMMITTEE ORDERS A FAVORABLE REPORT.

Provides for Settlement of Financial Troubles of Republic and Protection of Morgan Interests.

Washington, Mar. 2.—The senate committee on foreign relations ordered a favorable report on the treaty with Honduras relative to the settlement of the financial troubles of that republic and the protection of the Morgan interests.

By the terms of the instrument the United States guarantees the fulfillment of the contract by Honduras with the Morgans for the refunding of the debt of the republic on a basis of fifteen to one. Arrangement also is made for perpetuation of the collection of the customs duties through accredited agents acceptable to the United States, the disposition of the public moneys so collected and the deposit of these funds for the repayment of the interest and principal of the loan. The treaty also provides for an allowance of a certain percentage of the funds involved in the contract for the completion of projected railroad construction.

The far-reaching character of the text of this instrument and its general breadth was what caused the minority of the committee to look upon it with suspicion, for it is sufficiently broad to include any subsequent arrangement regarding the completion of internal improvements that the Honduran government may make with the American syndicate.

It was stated at the capitol that this treaty is the forerunner of others that will be negotiated having for their purpose the restoration of the finances of these smaller South and Central American republics to a sound basis.

STATEHOOD FOR NEW MEXICO

House Ratifies Constitution Recently Adopted—Action by Senate Is Not Essential.

Washington, Mar. 2.—The New Mexico constitution providing for statehood for the former territory was ratified in the house by a unanimous vote and amid cheering. The constitution for Arizona, which is also to be admitted to statehood, has not reached the house committee on territories for action, and regret was expressed.

Whether the senate finds time to act on the constitution in the legislative committee will make no difference to admission of New Mexico. The president is authorized to notify by proclamation the territorial governor of New Mexico that the constitution has been approved.

The New Mexico constitution is considered conservative. It carries the referendum for legislation but not the initiative or the recall. The referendum is hedged about with conditions requiring appeals from 15 per cent. of the voting population to submit to the voters for ratification any legislation and 40 per cent. of the voters in each county must support the nullification to make it effective.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

By NUTH CAMERON.

The Katherine Kip Editorial

I SOMETIMES think one of the great blessings we shall enjoy in heaven will be to receive letters by every post and never be obliged to reply to them.

From the general epistolary conduct of some "letter writers" I have not, I should say that the above sentiment of Washington Irving must also be their ideal of bliss in an earthly state, and that they were doing their part to make it possible for themselves.

How many people do you know who not only answer all their letters, but answer them all at once?

I have thought over my epistolary acquaintances in order to answer that question for myself, and I can name but one woman from whom a letter always brings a response by the next mail.

And yet it takes no more time to answer a letter now when you get it than two or three weeks or two or three months later, does it?

To acknowledge the receipt of letters is always proper to remove doubt of their non-arrival, and to make remarks on their contents, and to tell of some friend, whose birthday we have recently celebrated.

And although I suppose there is less danger of non-arrival now than in the days of George Washington, when letters lagged about in post bags on horseback or were merely sent, "kindness of some friend," it certainly is courteous not to leave your friends wondering too long whether "she ever received my letter or just hasn't gotten around to answering it."

To people who are themselves prompt in paying their letter debts, the haphazard "someday" method of answering letters sometimes brings anxiety or even unhappiness.

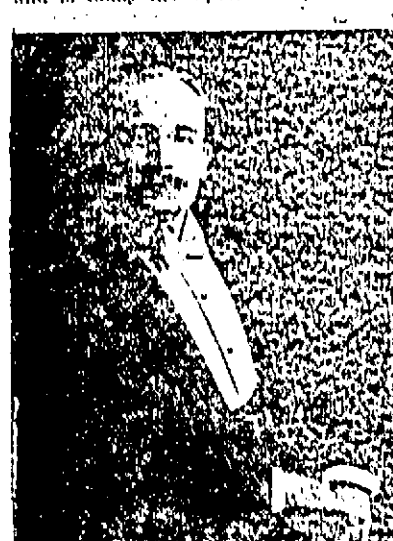

A woman told me recently how her whole Christmas holidays were tainted because she did not receive an expected letter from a very dear friend, and she became much disturbed lest the friend were ill or offended for some reason.

Myself, I think that getting all worked up like that showed a deplorable lack of common sense and self-control and a deplorable tendency to let an obsession run away with her, on the first woman's part, but experience of that sort certainly is trying, to say the least.

Very often at summer resorts I have known people who have lost two or three days from their vacation rest because they became so anxious and worried over not hearing from home as soon as they had hoped to.

In cases like this where people are inclined to worry it seems to me that the best way is to have some definite time—not too often—when the people at home shall write and then one is less apt to be disappointed.

Minneapolis today ranks as one of the great cities of the world, and the city which will be in our city Monday evening, March 6, is one of the great cities of the world. It is but eight years old and is today the equal of any metropolis.

tra in America. Emil Oberhofer, its organizer and conductor, is recognized as one of the most capable conductors in the world.

The regular orchestra, playing a symphony every alternate Friday evening, has been made in the past few years, and there are no more in the orchestra.

This will be its first winter tour. The orchestra met with such phenomenal success on its tour last year when it gave 141 concerts in 9 weeks that Mr. Oberhofer, the manager, this year decided to play the near-by towns during the winter season, alternating with the symphony concert week.

Countess de Swirsky Talks On American Society Women.

"American society women are very beautiful, they are well dressed, but they are—what you call it? yes, copy cats," declares Countess Tamara de Swirsky, the famous Russian dancer and dramatic artist. The Countess has been in America for 18 months and having been received in New York society with open arms and welcomed and entertained in the most exclusive of homes from Newport to Pasadena she is in a position to know whereof she speaks. "The trouble with your American society women," the Countess continues, "is that they are afraid, so afraid, they are not big to do and dare until some other one has done and dared. They have strange ing and every Sunday afternoon. In they have an idea that the high head Minneapolis, consists of eight men, and three men, the indifferent, herd in town, the orchestra carries off its indicate greatness, but there is one man.

Mr. Oberhofer has used great care. And that is character and achievement. In engaging the personnel of the orchestra. This noted artist will appear at Myers train, and it is this year better than ever Theatre tonight.

MISSIONARY WORK AT HOME.

Many a woman is concerned about the welfare and happiness of the people of the slums, giving up her time and money to the work of trying to make their conditions better, who forgets to be even reasonably kind to the girls she employs in her own home or the man who does the heavy work about her place.

One wonders at the inconsistency of such women and at the self-righteousness with which they view their attitude towards the world.

This type of woman has no mercy on her dependents. Apparently to her her servant girl has no soul, no feeling and is beyond the possibility of getting tired. Is it any wonder then, that it is growing harder all the time to secure competent household help? Most women would hesitate a long time before becoming servants in the homes of the average wealthy or well-to-do families.

This same type of woman will go into hysterics if she sees a man whipping a horse, but she never has any definite knowledge as to how her own horses are being treated by their caretakers. Nor is she any too particular about how they are used when she is riding behind them.

You see, in this contradictory old world of ours, it all depends upon the viewpoint, and many of us get the worst kind of a one on most everything.

The woman who sits and grieves over the condition of the poor, who worries because she cannot set the whole world right, should have a little opportunity for interruption. At home, and often quite close to her own thoughts, she will find plenty of poverty and plenty of reformative work to do. When she undertakes this work she will find that she has little time to worry on a broad scale.

Both charity and philanthropy are commendable. They help heal the wounds of this great old world of ours, and the services of all good women are needed in distributing them and helping those who are down to lift themselves up. It cannot afford to lose the services of a single one of its workers. But many of those who are most concerned in making others happy should remember that charity begins at home, and that no one has a right to work in the Master's vineyard until she has learned to treat every person and everything that comes under her care or protection as if they had feeling and the sense of self-respect.

Until she has done that she has no right to participate in the work of trying to lift up outsiders. After that she may employ herself as she pleases in works of charity and philanthropy.

Signs.

Roasting ears are almost without fail this season, snap beans are dry, lawns are scorched and unusually full of wild clover, which is killing the grass. On the other hand, this year's crop of Irish potatoes is the best we have had in ten years. Cauliflower is watery and insipid. Cabbages are porous, some actually spongy. Broccoli are as sweet as honey. All these signs mean something. What?—New York Press.

Welsh Clergy.

It is a disgraceful scandal that no many of the Welsh clergy should live in a state of acute poverty and literal beggary, and that no practical effort should ever be made to improve their condition by bishops and wealthy churchmen. The wonder is that in the face of this state of things anyone should consider the church establishment in Wales worth fighting for.—London Truth.

Swift Letter Carrier.

The "frigate" is the swiftest of all sea birds, and in some of the equatorial isles of the Pacific is used as a letter carrier. Taken from the nest before it can fly, it is hand fed on a fish diet by the natives; and in the course of a few months becomes so tame that it can be liberated during the day, and will return to its perch at sunset.

Appropriately Named.

A good many years ago a man cut lumber on the banks of a stream near Island Falls, Me., and paid no stumpage. This man cut the lumber on the sky and on one could find out who was cutting it. This went on for several years and the lumber continued to be cut, but no one could find out who was doing it. The brook now appears on the map as Sky brook.

A High Aim Indeed.

Uncle Rooster filed his coroner, "Aim high, young fellow," he said to his city nephew. Chuckling, he struck and held at arm's length a blue-headed sulphur match. Then he grunted: "P'r'stance, try to live up to yer mother's estimate of ye."

A Cold, LaGrippe, then Pneumonia.

Is too often the fatal sequence. Foley's Honey and Tar expels the cold, cures the laGrippe, and prevents pneumonia. It is a prompt and reliable cough medicine that contains no narcotics. "Foley's Honey and Tar" is the best cough remedy I ever used as it quickly stopped a severe cough that had long troubled me," says J. W. Kuhn, Princeton, Neb. Just so quickly and surely it acts in all cases of coughs, colds, laGrippe, and lung trouble. It is as safe for your children as yourself, and should be used in all cases of cough, whooping cough and measles, cough. Refuse substitutes. Badger Drug Co.

The Kitchen Cabinet

A LITTLE riches are desirable and we are justified in working them out; but riches of mind and soul give the greatest happiness and add the most to the value of life.

Cake Making.

The making and baking of a good cake takes real skill, and we still have much to learn about cake making. As there are two kinds of cake mixtures, both difficult of preparation, cakes with butter and those without, it is hard to decide which is the easiest to make.

Under butter cakes are cup and pound cakes. Those without butter are the sponge cakes. Many people think a butter cake is the most difficult to make, but a delicately textured and tender sponge cake is no mean task to perform.

A few things to remember in cake making: One should have the best of ingredients.

Take great care in measuring and combining ingredients.

An oven well regulated and cake carefully watched while baking.

One of the most important essentials in a successful cake is that the flour and baking powder is well mixed by several siftings. Once sifting the flour and baking powder does not sufficiently mix them. An easy way to sift any dry mixture is to use two sheets of paper large enough to hold the flour, and they may be quickly handled and emptied into the sieve.

Creaming the butter is another important process in cake making. Butter should be creamed until it snaps and cracks under the spoon.

In making a delicate white cake, only the whites are used, and they are beaten stiff and added the very last. Cut and fold the white of the egg in so that its lightness is not lost in the mixing.

Add flour and milk or other liquids alternately, a little at a time, beating well, as this is the stage when the fine grain is made before the whites are added.

Avoid overbeating butter, when creaming it, or the texture of the cake is not as good.

Sponge cakes are combined in a different way. The flour is added and folded in after the eggs have been beaten and the sugar is added to them.

A sponge cake needs a slow oven, a butter cake a moderate one.

Youth and Age.

Indeed it is useful when the young usurp the place or despise the wisdom of the aged; and among the many dark signs of these times, the disobedience and insolence of youth are among the darkest. But with whom is the fault? Youth never yet lost its modesty where age had not lost its honor; nor did childhood ever refuse its reverence except where age had forgotten correction.—Rivlin.

Use TIZ--

FRECKLES GONE

"Simple Remedy from Badger Drug Co. Removed Them," Says Society Lady.

"The best skin specialist told me that nothing would remove my freckles and that I could never have my skin as good as it is now. I bought a box of Badger Drug Co. which cleared my skin and gave me a fine complexion. The action of the ointment is really remarkable for when applied at night, many of the freckles disappear entirely by morning, and the rest have begun to fade. An ointment that is used every day for the worst case."

Be sure to ask the Badger Drug Co. for the double strength ointment, as this is sold under a guarantee of money back if it fails to remove the freckles.

Useful Tears.
Tears have their use, apart from the crying aspect. The eye requires to be kept clear and clean, and tears perform this duty. A striking example of this is shown when the eye is hurt. It at once commences to water, and often this natural method of cleansing relieves the pain and removes the cause of the discomfort.

The Villains of Fiction.
What would happen to writers of fiction if the world suddenly became good and there were no rogues left, no bad men, no bad women? It is to be feared that the craft of novelists would then be in sad straits, because, as it happens, the wicked make much more interesting reading than the good.—Book Monthly.

Dishonest Heroines.
The steady increase of crime among stage heroines is beginning to get serious. It used to be the men who did all, or most of the dreadful things in plays—I mean the picking and stealing, the forging and embezzling, and offenses of that kind. Now it is the women—and it is all the fault of the late Henrik Ibsen. Heaven rest his soul, notwithstanding.—M. A. P.

Author's Graceful Compliment.
When a Chinese novelist has his work illustrated he selects for the subjects of illustration the faces of well-known people in the town where he lives. This is considered a graceful compliment to his fellow-townsmen and greatly promotes the sale of the book.

St. James' Day.
According to a saying that has long been current in London, "Whoever owns oysters on St. James' day will never want money." As a result Londoners, under the effect of this old superstition, begin to eat oysters on the 25th of July, instead of waiting for the coming of the first month with the "it." So far as can be ascertained, it makes no difference whether the oysters are eaten raw or cooked.—Circle.

You Will Be Proud of the appearance of your stove

IF YOU USE Black Silk Stove Polish

It makes old stoves look like new and lasts four times as long as any other polish. Don't imagine all brands of stove polish are alike. Black Silk is different. It's so much better than other stove polishes that there is absolutely no comparison. It's in a class all by itself.

It makes a brilliant, glossy shine that appeals to the eye—don't rub or dust off. Give it a trial. Try it on your parlor stove—your cook stove or your gas range. If you do not find it the best stove polish you ever used, your dealer is authorized to refund your money.

Here is what some of the ladies write us: "I like Black Silk Stove Polish better than any I have ever used. People say, 'where did you get your new stove?' and I tell them 'I like Black Silk Stove Polish that makes it look like new.' I will not use any other kind when I can get Black Silk Stove Polish. It makes stoves look nicer and stay longer than any other polish." "Black Silk Stove Polish is by far the best I ever used. I have tried many different kinds but find none so good." "I like Black Silk Stove Polish better than any I ever used. Several parties in this neighborhood have come to get some of your polish since they saw my stove after using it."

Ask your hardware and stove dealer for Black Silk Stove Polish and refuse a counterfeit brand. Costs you no more than the ordinary kind so why not have the best?

Rheumatism Comes From Bad Kidneys

Once Your Kidneys Work Properly, Rheumatism, Kidney Disease, and Bladder Trouble Disappear How to Cure Yourself.

It is no longer necessary to spend months and months undergoing complicated treatment for rheumatism, kidney or bladder trouble or spend a good many dollars in doctors' bills. A new cure can now be obtained which seems to act more like a marvel than a medicine. This treatment has produced such satisfactory results in a short time that it is now practiced from first to last.

These should be no more doubt about the rapidity of the cure, no fear of the fatal termination of treacherous kidney disease or dropsy.

Rheumatism means nothing more nor less than that your kidneys do not work properly. Your blood passes through the kidneys hundreds of times a day to be filtered and purified. When the kidneys are weak, the poison is not taken out of the blood as they should be. This leads to various diseases, such as rheumatism, dropsy, Bright's disease, diabetes, dropsy and bladder trouble.

The new guaranteed treatment is Dr. Derby's Kidney Pills. One day's use of them will prove their remarkable effect. M. T. Hildner of Lima, Ohio, says: "When I feel bad in my back I just take a couple of Derby's Kidney Pills and get immediate relief."

If you have rheumatism anywhere, back pain, dropsy, kidney trouble, diabetes, or your whole condition is in a state of disrepair, you will not be disappointed. Dr. Derby's Kidney Pills are sold at all drug stores—10 pills—10 days' treatment—25 cents, or we will send them direct from the laboratory of Dr. Derby's Medicine, 1414 Maple Street, Chicago, Ill., if you want to try them first. The Honorable Senator Sagebrush

By FRANCIS LYNDE

Copyright, 1910, by Street & Smith

CHAPTER VIII. THE QUEEN'S GAMBIT.

WHEN the news went out to the dwellers in the sagebrush hills that Ross Blount's son had accepted a place on the railroad's legal staff the first wave of astonishment was followed by many guesses as to what young Blount's action portended.

The Platsman, the principal daily and the leading organ of the reformers, was the first to find an ulterior motive in Evan Blount's appointment and its acceptance. The editor took a half column in which to point out in emphatic and vigorous phrase the danger that threatened the commonwealth in this very evident collision of the railroad and the machine.

The Lost River Mirror, on the other hand, was unwilling to believe that the younger Blount was acting altogether in his father's interest in taking the place provided for him by the railway. Hence there were in this editor's comment of a disagreement between father and son, of differences of opinion which might later on lead to a pitched battle.

The Daily Capital, however—the railroad organ—covertly insinuated that nothing for nothing was the accepted rule in politics; that if the railroad had made a place for the son it was only a justifiable deduction that the father was not an individual to the railroad interest as the opposition press was willing to have the public believe.

Elsewhere in the state press comment was divided as the molders of public opinion happened to read party lines or gain in the appointment of the new legal department head. But on the whole the senator's son was given the benefit of the doubt and a chance to prove up. This would tell.

Of the interview between the father and son, in which Evan had announced his intention of accepting a place under McVickar, nothing was said in the newspapers, for the very good reason that no reporter was present.

If the young man had been prepared for a storm of opposition he was disappointed. The interview took place in the evening of the day Mr. McVickar's private car was attached to eastbound train No. 102, and the place was the sitting room of the senator's private suit. Blount had meant to give some of the ethical reasons for taking the step which would put such a summary end to the attorney-generalship scheme. But when the time came and he had brusquely declared his purpose of accepting the railroad appointment he did not find it entirely easy to say the other things.

"No McVickar talked you over?" was the father's gentle comment. "It's all right, son. You're a man grown, and I reckon you know best what you want to do. If it puts us on opposite sides of the political creek we won't let that roll the water any more than it has to, will we?"

To such a mild mannered sunderer or apparent surrender the purely Blount emotions could do no less than to respond heartily.

"We mustn't let it," was the quick reply, but after that he added: "I feel that I ought to make some explanations, though. I've been going about with my eyes and ears open, and I must confess that the political field has been made to appear most unattractive to me. From what I can learn the political situation in this state seems to be very frankly controlled upon the principle of bargain and sale. I couldn't go into anything like that and keep my self respect."

"No, of course you couldn't, son, so you just took a place where you could earn good clean money in your profession. I don't blame you."

Blount was vaguely perturbed. He could not help feeling that his father was keeping something back.

"You think there will be more or less political work in my job with the railroad?" he asked, determined to get at the submerged facts, if there were any.

"Oh, I don't know. McVickar has hired you to do a lawyer's work, and I guess that is what he will expect you to do, isn't it?"

Mr. McVickar had not defined the duties of the new assistant counselship very clearly. But there was a strong inference running through all that was said to the effect that the leadership of the legal department would carry with it some political responsibilities.

At the moment Blount had been rather glad that such was the case. The vice-president had convinced him very thoroughly of the justice of the railroad company's contention—that the laws of the state, if rigidly administered, amounted to a practical confiscation of the company's property.

While Mr. McVickar was talking Blount had rather hoped that his new position would give him opportunities to place before the people of the state, and to do this he knew that he would have to enter the campaign as a political worker. Surely his father must know this, and he went boldly upon the assumption that his father did know it.

"I am to be chief of the legal department on this division, and as such it will, of course, be necessary for me to defend my client in court and out of court," he said finally. "And I mean to do it."

"Of course you do; you've got to be honest with yourself—and with McVickar. I don't mind telling you, son, that I am squarely on the other side this time, and I had hoped you were going to be. But if you're not, why, that's the end of it. We won't quarrel about it."

Now, this was not at all the paternal attitude which the young man had prefigured. But before anything more could be said Mrs. Blount came in to remind them both that they had a dinner appointment with Professor Anners and his daughter and that there was barely time to dress for it.

It was late that night, several hours after the informal little dinner for five in the Inter-Mountain cafe, when the senator had himself lifted from the lobby to the fourth floor and made his way to the door of his own apartment. As was her custom, his wife was waiting up for him.

"Did you find out anything more?" she asked without looking up from the tiny embroidery frame which seemed to be her constant companion at home or elsewhere.

"Not very much. McVickar has fixed things to suit himself. Evan's law office position is to be pretty largely nominal, I guess, and Gantry's crowd is to see to it that he doesn't get to know too much, which means that the bribery is not to be done by the legal department in this campaign."

"But they can't keep him from finding out about it," she protested.

"They are going to try mighty hard anyway. Evan wants to believe that everything is on the high moral plane, and when a man wants to believe a thing it's pretty easy to fool him. It'll be a winning card to them if they can send the boy out to talk convincingly about the cleanliness of the company's campaign. That sort of talk, handed out as Evan can do it, if he is convinced of the truth of what he is saying, will capture the honest ranchman every time."

"We must get him back," she said.

"Have you thought of any plan?"

"No."

"She smiled. 'I have a plan. He may have to take a regular course of treatment, and it may make him very ill. Would you mind that?'"

David Blount leaned back in his chair and regarded her through half closed eyelids.

"I don't want to see the boy suffer any more than he has to," he objected.

"Neither do I," was the quick agreement; then, with no apparent relevance, "What do you think of Miss Anners?"

The senator sat up, and the slow smile wrinkled humorously at the corners of his eyes. "I haven't thought much about her. She's the kind you can't get near enough to think about, isn't she?"

"She is a young woman with a very bright mind and a very high purpose," was the little lady's summing up of Patricia. "But she isn't altogether a Boston iceberg. She thinks she is in love with her career; but, really, I think she is very much in love with Evan. If we could win her over to our side—"

"This time the senator's smile broadened into a laugh.

"You are away ronder out of my depth now, little woman," he chuckled. "Does your course of treatment for the boy include large doses of the young woman administered frequently?"

"Oh, no," was the instant reply. "I was only wondering if it wouldn't be well to enlist her sympathies."

"Why not—if you think best?"

"Will you give me carte blanche to do as I please?" asked the small intriguer.

"Why not?" said the senator again.

"You can always outfigure me two to one when it comes to real politics. You have made a fine art of it, Honorable."

"You deal with people in the mass, David, and no one can do it better. I deal with the individual. That is all the difference. When do the Annerses go up to the fossil fields?"

"I don't know—any time when you will invite them to make Watnece Hall their headquarters, I guess."

"Then I think it will be tomorrow," said the confident mistress of politics.

"It won't do to let Evan see too much of the young woman until after his course of treatment has been begun. Shall we make it tomorrow? And will you telephone Hawkins to bring down the big car? I think Miss Patricia Anners will stand a little impressing. She is very democratic—in theory."

Her hair that was her own.
And bodice, girdle, flounce and lace
To right and left were thrown.
In simplest gown of simple fold
She wrapped her heavily veiled
Each jewel and trinket cast aside,
And she, who was so fair,
Among the pillows of her lounge
She lay, to read and rest,
Fatter than even eyes of men
Had seen her—at her best!

But when her maid, with timid knock,
Brought in a card of white,
She to her mirror flew and cried:
"Oh, I am such a fright!"
And then, with comb, hair and stock,
And rouge, and all the gear
Of puffs and pins, she strove in haste
To make herself that name!

THE TIDES.

HIGH tides are caused by the attraction of the moon and lesser ones, sometimes uniting with the others, by the fainter attraction of the more distant sun. If the earth were covered with a universal ocean, as it once was, and if earth and moon were for the first time suddenly placed at their present distance of 240,000 miles, and both at rest, the moon would immediately pile up a tidal wave on the side toward itself. The body of the earth being a little more distant would feel its attraction less, and the water on the earth's opposite side would feel it least and be left piled up into a secondary tidal wave.

If now the earth began to rotate on its axis, but the moon remained as at first, these two tidal waves would remain as they were relatively to the moon, giving to the tides the effect of going around the earth in the opposite direction.

If next the moon started revolving around the earth in the same direction with the earth's rotation, the attraction would carry the tides with it, more or less counteracting their apparent opposite movement. The earth's motion alone would at any point bring on a fresh tide every twelve hours, but the moon's motion is such that they are held back an average of about fifty minutes. High tide this morning is fifty minutes later than yesterday.

But the tides are much affected by the configuration of the continents. With a universal ocean and stationary earth and moon, the earth's diameter would be fifty-eight inches more in the direction of its tides than at right angles thereof, which gives a normal high tide of twenty-nine inches average. But in the bay of Fundy the tides reach sixty feet.

Given enough time the tides which now work against the earth's rotation will reduce it to an equality with the moon's revolutions. Then a day will not consist of twenty-four hours, but of twenty-nine and one-half times that period.

Dogs to Carry Mail.

Balzac's Letters Preserved.

Comte de Lovenjoul has presented to the French academy a valuable collection of letters written and signed by Balzac. The count became possessed of them in a peculiar way. One day he saw a cobbler lighting his pipe with a twisted letter. The ink on the letter was old and the handwriting interested the count, who asked the cobbler to let him look at it. He recognized Balzac's handwriting and signature and gave the man $3.50 for his letter. The cobbler told him he had more of them. He had bought them in a heap of waste paper to wrap shoes in, and he sold all to the Comte de Lovenjoul.

Warning to Railroad Men

Look out for sores and even dangerous kidney and bladder trouble resulting from years of railroadng. Geo. E. Bell, 639 Third St., East Wayne, Ind., was many years a conductor on the Nickel Plate. He says: "Twenty years of railroadng left my kidneys in terrible condition. There was a continual pain across my back and hips and my kidneys gave me much distress, and the action of my bladder was frequent and most painful. I got a supply of Foley Kidney Pills and the first bottle made a wonderful improvement and four bottles cured me completely. Since being cured I have recommended Foley Kidney Pills to many of my railroad friends."

MONODIET AT BANQUETS.

On Christmas day, at the dinner table, the writer's exclusion of turkey and miscellaneous articles of food, turned the conversation to the monodiet, and brought out the fact that a distinguished professional man was often distinguished at a banquet by having only a bowl of oatmeal on his plate, and the governor of a western state on similar occasions carried a sack of walnuts and raisins in his pocket. Dr. C. A. Reed, who happened to be present, formerly examiner for many insurance companies and a professor in Columbia University, said that he knew of no one whose capillary circulation and other external indications warranted as great freedom from disease and premature senility as did those of the man who practices what he preaches about diet.

The good, tender, thoughtful mother can make a full pint of the quick-acting, permanent result giving cough syrup which can be used by the whole family for coughs and colds, thus preventing pneumonia, sore throat, diphtheria and other fatal maladies. Just obtain a concentrated fluid known as Easwase Mouthwash—4-1/2 oz. bottle, and empty it into a pint jar or bottle. Then take a pint of granulated sugar and pour over it a half pint of boiling water; stir, cool and fill up the bottle with the syrup. Full directions for making and using are contained on each package. All good druggists sell it, or it can readily be obtained of their wholesaler. Thousands of families are using this because of its cheapness and thoroughness.
